

WORK SAFETY AND HEALTH: YOU ARE ENTITLED TO COMPENSATION!

1. You are ENTITLED to clean and ample air! Ships covered by Ogiso's Register are required to keep O<sub>2</sub> levels in airtight cabins above 20kPa at all times. Additionally, CO<sub>2</sub> levels must not exceed 1kPa. If your employer is under-rationing vital environmental resources you might be entitled to file for compensation.
2. You are ENTITLED to a comfortable and temperate work environment! Ogiso's Register regulations stipulate that airtight cabins must remain between 290 and 300 degrees Kelvin at all times. If your employer holds any policy above Total Loss Only (TLO) and refuses to install adequate heating or cooling systems within your ship or station, please file to the Ogiso's Register Claims Department immediately.
3. You are ENTITLED to a break! Work schedules for employees within a pressure or EVA suit must include regular trips back to a fully pressurized cabin where the environment within suit systems can be recycled. Ogiso's Register regulations stipulate that O<sub>2</sub> levels within suit systems remain above 20kPa, and CO<sub>2</sub> remains below 1kPa. If your employer is demanding long hours in a pressure suit without breaks, please contact the Ogiso's Register Human Assets department.
4. You are ENTITLED to coworker compliance! If you see a colleague intentionally disregard any of the above regulations please file a report to the Ogiso's Register Compliance Department. If you do not hear back within two weeks, please elevate your claim to the Ogiso's Register Security Office.
5. You are ENTITLED to this information! Your employer must post this flyer in your workplace in a highly visible location. If this poster is not posted in your workplace, please file a complaint with the Ogiso Register Outreach Department.
